

TRAVELTIMES

The time has come for us to go out and gain first-hand knowledge of even more countries.

Over the next few months we will drive a campervan through New Zealand's North and South islands, hire a car along Australia's East coast, check out the beaches in the Cook Islands, take a road trip through Hawaii and Western USA and make our way through Canada on public transport.

Following this journey the Travelocator team will have had extensive first-hand experience in a total of 62 countries.

The more countries we visit, the more likely it is that your next itinerary will have been created by someone who can give you the sort of advice only gained through direct experience.

Until the end of June, www.travelocator.co.uk will be offline. You can still send in a request but it won't be actioned until July 2009.

Travelocator would like to take this opportunity to thank our customers and subscribers. We have had a good few months setting up the company and look forward to offering an even better product in the summer. Until then, enjoy your travels.

Where we are travelling until the end of June

The last 3 months

These last few months have been extremely busy for the Travelocator team.

Having set up our brand new website we then worked hard at marketing our service and getting the Travelocator brand out there.

We are very pleased with how well things have been going so far.

Requests have come in for itineraries for all over the world.

The survey we have been sending to our new customers has shown us what we have been doing right and where we can improve.

We now believe we offer the very best service for our customers which we will maintain as the company grows.
